The Center for Defense and Homeland Security (CDHS) is engaged with both public and private sector industry and National Laboratory partners, to work together to pioneer new ways to innovate commercialize technologies ways that accelerate global and regional economic development, and position FSU-CDHS as the "go-to" place for collaborators who also seek to find solutions the United States' most compelling national security and defense challenges.