

Office of Financial Aid FAQ

BRONCOS at the beginning of the 2016-2017 academic year, it is important to answer some Frequently Asked Questions regarding Financial Aid.

What is Financial Aid? Financial Aid is money (grants, loans, Federal Work Study, and scholarships) provided by various agencies to help students meet the cost of attending college.

What types of aid are available to you, the student? There are four main types of aid: grants, Federal Work Study, scholarships, and loans.

- Grants such as the Federal Pell grant, Federal SEOG, and UNC Need – Based grant, are free assistance that does not need to be repaid.
- Federal Work Study provides an opportunity for students to work and earn money for educational expenses.
- Scholarships are provided through various university departments and external agencies. Scholarships do not need to be repaid.
- Loans, such as the Federal Direct Subsidized/Unsubsidized loans, are low interest loans that need to be paid back after graduation or when you cease to be enrolled at least half-time.

Does my enrollment status determine the amount of financial aid I will receive? The number of credit hours in which you are enrolled plays a major role in determining the amount of aid available. The Federal Pell grant is adjusted for students enrolled less than full-time. In order to receive student loans, you must be enrolled at least half-time.

What is Satisfactory Academic Progress? All financial aid recipients must show academic progress to maintain eligible for financial aid. Students must earn at least 67% of their attempted hours while maintaining a minimum GPA of 2.0 for undergraduate and a minimum GPA of 3.0 for graduate students, and not exceed 180 total hours.

Prior-Prior Year Is Here! But, What is it?

The Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA) season will begin earlier for the 2017-2018 academic year. The 2017-2018 FAFSA application will become available on October 1, 2016. This is a significant change because the FAFSA application historically became available on January 1st.

Students completing the application will no longer need to estimate income and tax information either. The 2017-2018 FAFSA will use the 2015 income and tax information (known as the Prior-Prior year). The IRS Data Retrieval Tool will be available for all students beginning the first day the application is available.

Below is a table that details the new dates and changes beginning with the 2017-2018 FAFSA application.
