The image shows the exterior of the Fayetteville Fire Station at Fayetteville State University. The building features a prominent gabled roof with a textured stone facade. A large, light-colored rectangular sign is mounted on the wall above the entrance, displaying the text "FAYETTEVILLE FIRE STATION at FSU". The entrance is framed by four white, classical-style columns supported by stone bases. A glass double door is centered between the columns. Above the door, there is a small circular emblem. The sky is clear and blue. The overall appearance is that of a modern, well-maintained institutional building.

General Information

Statement of Educational Mission

Fayetteville State University is a regional public comprehensive university, offering degrees at the baccalaureate and master's levels and a doctorate in Educational Leadership. The primary mission of Fayetteville State University is to provide quality education to its students through a basic liberal arts foundation, specialized professional training, and specific graduate programs. Committed to excellence in teaching, research, and service to the community, the university seeks to prepare its students and graduates to lead meaningful and productive lives. In doing so, Fayetteville State University strives to produce creative thinkers and leaders who will reach beyond current intellectual and cultural boundaries to become change agents for shaping the future of the nation and the world.

As a part of its broader mission, the university extends its services as a regional institution by providing life-long learning experiences and opportunities to the university's immediate and extended communities and serving as a resource for business, education, and culture in North Carolina.

Philosophy and Values

Fayetteville State University is committed to educating students in the liberal arts tradition and to the belief that the intellectual life of the student is to be cultivated for the good of the individual and humankind. The university embraces the philosophical and educational beliefs that a strong liberal arts education should foster in students the independence of mind, clarity of thought, and depth of spiritual vision that will inspire them to contribute integrally to the good of society and the quality of life for all of humankind.

In keeping with these beliefs, Fayetteville State University strives to prepare students to think critically, to appreciate the arts, to express themselves creatively, and to make independent and rational judgments. The university also endeavors to cultivate in students a respect for the earth and its peoples, engendering in them both an appreciation of the diverse cultures around the globe and a sense of responsibility for preserving the earth and its treasures.

Through disciplined scholarship and creativity, students are prepared to compete in and contribute to both the artistic world and the world of the marketplace while maintaining high standards in their personal and professional lives. In short, Fayetteville State University aspires to cultivate intellectual growth and excellence of scholarship, inculcating in students a love of truth, of beauty, and of goodness to attune them to a lifelong pursuit of the ideals of learning, of humane values, and of selfless service to humankind.

History of Fayetteville State University

When the Civil War ended in 1865, an education agenda in Fayetteville's Black community was already underway. A year after the Civil War ended, the Phillips School provided primary education to Fayetteville's black citizens, and the Sumner School provided intermediate education. The two schools were consolidated in 1869 and dedicated in April of that year as the Howard School, in honor of the Freedman's Bureau chief General O. O. Howard. Seven prominent African-American men—Mathew N. Leary, A. J. Chesnutt, Robert Simmons, George Grainger, Thomas Lomax, Nelson Carter, and David A. Bryant - pooled $136 to purchase two lots for the first building that housed the Howard School.

African-American students at the Phillips and Sumner schools were taught fundamentals—reading, writing, arithmetic, and practical skills. Building on the curriculum, the leadership of the Howard School added geography and science classes, the latter after its first telescope was acquired. Even then, the community understood the opportunity and the obligation to “build on strengths.” All of this occurred in the midst of an economic depression that threatened the entire town. “Remarkably, Fayetteville blacks continued to contribute to the school's operation, demonstrating the resilience of the community as well as the importance that it attached to education.”

The most enduring legacy of Robert Harris, the first leader of the Howard School, was in the training of teachers. Waves of students sought to be educated at the school, and teachers were in short supply. Out of necessity, Harris began to train teachers for the Howard School and for the small rural schools in Cumberland and surrounding counties.

By the time that Governor Zebulon Vance decided to establish two state normal schools—one for African-American teachers in Fayetteville and one for white teachers at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, the Howard School had already been operating as a normal school for a full decade. The year that the first two state normal schools in North Carolina were established was 1877, and the Howard School that year became not just the first public normal school for African Americans in North Carolina but also the first state-sponsored institution for the education of African-American teachers in the South.

By a legislative act of 1877, the North Carolina General Assembly provided for the establishment of a Normal School for the education of Black teachers. The Howard School was chosen as the most promising because of its successful record during the previous ten years. It was designated a teacher training institution, and its name was changed to the State Colored Normal School. Five Administrative Officers served for relatively short periods until 1899: Robert L. Harris, Charles W. Chesnutt, Ezekiel E. Smith, George Williams, and the Rev. L. E. Fairley.

In 1899, Dr. Smith returned to the institution. Under his administration, the school grew from three rooms in a small frame structure to a physical plant of ten buildings on a fifty-acre tract of land. In order to pay for the land, Dr. Smith, along with F. D. Williston, E. N. Williams, J. G. Smith and Dr. P. N. Melchor, endorsed a note for $3,000.00. The note was renewed several times and eventually paid off by Dr. Smith, who later deeded the land to the State. Dr. Smith retired in 1933 at the age of 80 with more than 40 years of service to the institution.

Dr. J. Ward Seabrook succeeded Dr. Smith and under his presidency the school became Fayetteville State Teachers College, thereafter being authorized to grant the Bachelor of Science degree in Education. The college received both state and regional accreditation in 1947. Dr. Seabrook retired in 1956 and was succeeded by Dr. Rudolph Jones. During his administration, the curriculum was expanded to include majors in secondary education and programs leading to degrees outside the teaching field. The name of the school was changed to Fayetteville State College in 1963. Also, under the leadership of Dr. Jones, six additions were made to the physical plant to accommodate a rapidly expanding enrollment.

In 1969, the institution acquired its present name, "Fayetteville State University," and Dr. Charles "A" Lyons, Jr. was elected president. By a legislative act in 1972, Fayetteville State University became a constituent institution of the University of North Carolina System, and Dr. Lyons became its first chancellor. During his tenure, the curriculum was expanded to include a variety of both baccalaureate and master's level programs. In addition, the Fort Bragg-Pope AFB Extension Center, in conjunction with the Weekend and Evening College, was established in order to provide military personnel and other persons employed full-time with the opportunity to further their education. The general academic structure took its present configuration in 1985 when the university became a Comprehensive Level I Institution. In addition to expanding program offerings and services, eight buildings were added to the physical plant during this period.

On January 1, 1988, Dr. Lloyd V. Hackley became the seventh Chief Executive Officer of the university. In his seven years as Chancellor, the university expanded its master's level program offerings to include biology, business administration, education, English, history, mathematics, psychology, sociology, and teaching; FSU's first doctoral program in Educational Leadership was established; and, baccalaureate program offerings were also increased to include 36 disciplines in the arts and sciences, business and economics, and education. The addition of the $6.3 million ultra-modern School of Business and Economics Building, and the new $10.9 million Health and Physical Education Building, underscored Dr. Hackley's commitment to FSU's continued expansion and growth.

Chancellor Hackley strengthened FSU's community outreach to at-risk children in the public schools, establishing numerous scholarship and tutoring/mentoring programs to encourage more young people to aspire to academic excellence and a college education. FSU's first major public capital campaign was also completed during Dr. Hackley's tenure, which enabled the university to increase the number of privately funded scholarships. On December 31, 1994, Dr. Hackley left his post to become President of the North Carolina Department of Community Colleges, the first African-American to lead the state's system of 59 community colleges. Dr. Donna J. Benson, Associate Vice President for Academic Affairs of the University of North Carolina served as Interim Chancellor from January 1, 1995 to November 15, 1995.

Dr. Willis McLeod, a 1964 graduate of Fayetteville State University, was appointed Chancellor on November 15, 1995. Dr. McLeod became the ninth Chief Executive Officer of the 130-year-old institution, and the first alumnus to serve as Chancellor since FSU became a constituent of The University of North Carolina in 1972. Dr. McLeod earned his master's and doctoral degrees in school administration from the University of Virginia, and had over 30 years of experience in education as a teacher, assistant superintendent, and superintendent of public school systems in Virginia, Louisiana, and North Carolina.

Several major initiatives were established by Dr. McLeod to lead FSU into the 21st century. The “Freshman Year Initiative,” (or F.Y.I.) a program designed to enhance students’ educational outcomes, was initiated in fall 1996; new outreach efforts aimed at forging stronger community ties and involving the community in University life have been undertaken; campus improvements such as expansion of the Rudolph Jones Student Center and master planning to accommodate an expected enrollment increase of 50%; and Dr. McLeod was instrumental in forming a regional partnership of public school, community college, and university leaders to focus on strengthening the educational pipeline from pre-school to post-graduate studies.

Dr. T. J. Bryan was appointed Chancellor on June 18, 2003. Dr. Bryan was the tenth Chief Executive Officer of the 136-year-old institution, and the first female to head the institution. She was also the first African-American woman to lead a UNC institution. In recommending Bryan to the Board of Governors, President Broad said: "T.J. Bryan brings to Fayetteville State University great energy, enthusiasm, and a proven record of administrative success at the campus level and in two highly respected public university systems. The proud product of an HBCU, she has demonstrated a passionate commitment to sustaining the special mission of these institutions. Throughout a career that spans two decades, a signature of her leadership has been her advocacy of minority student achievement, educational access and equity, and strong faculty support. I am confident she is the right person to lead FSU through a period of dramatic growth and transformation."

The hallmark of her first year was an emphasis on “building on strengths”. She issued a call to action—on all academic fronts. She fostered academic-program development such as forensic science, biotechnology, communications, and management information systems. On her direction, a generic program in nursing was developed and fully approved in seven months. Chancellor Bryan required that all academic units have 90% of full-time faculty with terminal degrees by fall 2005. She improved a lot of services to students in an array of ways, including an extension of hours in key areas—Registrar, Admissions, Graduate School, Financial Aid, Cashier, Weekend and Evening College, Book Store, an 18 x 7 computer laboratory, available to students and so on.

Lloyd Vincent Hackley was re-appointed Chancellor in July 2007, shortly after he resigned as the chancellor (interim) at North Carolina A&T State University from June 2006 to July 2007. He was president of the North Carolina College System, and the University of Arkansas at Pine Bluff, vice president in the 16-campus University of North Carolina system, chair of the North Carolina Advocacy Institute, chair of the Arkansas Civil Rights Commission, and chair of the President’s Advisory Board on Historically Black Colleges and Universities. Dr. Hackley was also a faculty member in the Government Executive Institute at the UNC-Chapel Hill School of business.

Dr. Hackley is chancellor emeritus of Fayetteville State University, chair of the NC Methodist Home for Children and chairman emeritus of the National CHARACTER COUNTS! Coalition. Since January, 1997, he has taught in or conducted personally more than 3200 seminars, workshops and lectures in ethics and character development throughout America and overseas, for children, parents, teachers, coaches, and other persons who work with children, as well as for businesses, universities, various governmental agencies and other youth-serving organizations. Among his hundreds of honors and awards, his most prized are the Key to the City of Roanoke, NC PTA's highest award for service to children (twice), the NC Methodist Home for Children's Guardian Angel Award, and the NC Association of Families and Children Services Trustee of the Year Award for 2003

FSU has partnered with Rave Wireless to provide its students with mobile phone-based academic and community tools. This new program, BRONCO Mobile, helps students better connect with friends and FSU through the mobile phone. Students can receive text alerts from their school organizations, class change notices and cancellations, even emergency alerts such as hurricane closings. They will always be connected to everything going on at FSU. Bronco Mobile is optional and all enrolled students may participate in the program for the school year 2007-2008. Starting August 2008, the program will be mandatory for all students.

Definitions: The Academic Year includes fall (winter at NCSA) and spring terms. It excludes all summer terms. "Need" in this report is the calculated need using the Federal Methodology adjusted to reflect the number of semesters that a student was actually enrolled as an in-state undergraduate. "Unmet Need" is that portion of Need that exceeds gift aid (Scholarships and Grants). All percentages are the percent of the unduplicated headcount of the in-state undergraduates shown in the first column. Average loan amounts are calculated for those with loans (excluding PLUS loans), not for all in-state undergraduates.

Definitions: The Academic Year includes fall (winter at NCSA) and spring terms. It excludes all summer terms. "Need" in this report is the calculated need using the Federal Methodology adjusted to reflect the number of semesters that a student was actually enrolled as an in-state undergraduate. "Unmet Need" is that portion of Need that exceeds gift aid (Scholarships and Grants). All percentages are the percent of the unduplicated headcount of the in-state undergraduates shown in the first column. Average loan amounts are calculated for those with loans (excluding PLUS loans), not for all in-state undergraduates.

Definitions: The Academic Year includes fall (winter at NCSA) and spring terms. It excludes all summer terms. "Need" in this report is the calculated need using the Federal Methodology adjusted to reflect the number of semesters that a student was actually enrolled as an in-state undergraduate. "Unmet Need" is that portion of Need that exceeds gift aid (Scholarships and Grants). All percentages are the percent of the unduplicated headcount of the in-state undergraduates shown in the first column. Average loan amounts are calculated for those with loans (excluding PLUS loans), not for all in-state undergraduates.

The Economic Impact of Fayetteville State University

Fayetteville State University is an important source of economic activity in the greater Fayetteville region's economy.<sup>1</sup> The university impacts the region's economy through its own spending and through the spending associated with its students and the out-of-region visitors to its campus. In order to analyze the economic impact of this spending, it is first necessary to identify where the spending associated with the university occurs. It is then necessary to adjust the estimated spending figures to reflect only "net new" economic activity attracted into the greater Fayetteville region by the University. The major types of spending associated with Fayetteville State University are presented in Table 1.

Source: FSU and the Jacob France Institute

As presented in Table 1, there is just over $120.5 million in total spending activity associated with the operations of Fayetteville State University. However, this spending does not represent the actual impact of the university on the state or the region. Some of the spending associated with the university occurs outside of the region. For example, spending by faculty, staff, or students living outside of the region, or university purchases made from out-of-region suppliers. These expenditures are not included in the economic analysis. After these are excluded, we have an estimate of the direct impact that the university has on the region. This direct spending represents income to residents and businesses in the greater Fayetteville region that would not occur in the absence of the university. These "net new" expenditures are, in-turn, <sup>1</sup> The greater Fayetteville region analyzed for this report includes Cumberland, Harnett, Sampson, Bladen, Robeson, Hoke, Moore and Wake Counties. The geographic area analyzed in this report was expanded to add Wake county spending to the modeling and analysis. As a result, the economic impact calculations in this report are not comparable to the FY2004 report.

earned and re-spent by other regional residents and businesses in several successive cycles of economic activity, thus creating so-called “multiplier” effects in the regional economy. After adjusting the spending figures, the $97.1 million in regional spending constitutes the direct university-related spending that impacts the Fayetteville regional economy. This spending represents the direct effects of the university, which are subject to multiplier effects.

University operating expenditures include the payroll and purchases made by the university. Ninety-four percent (94%) of the university’s total payroll expenditures are paid to the university employees that reside in the Greater Fayetteville region. While 69% of the university’s total procurement spending of $32.8 million is paid to suppliers in North Carolina ($22.7 million), only $12.6 million (39%) is paid to suppliers in the Greater Fayetteville region. Thus, a total of $44.1 million of the university’s $66.3 million in operating expenditures are spent in the Greater Fayetteville region (81%) and a total of 91% of the university’s operating expenditures are spent in North Carolina.

University capital expenditures consist of the construction and major renovation expenditures made by Fayetteville State University. The university had total capital and construction expenditures of $10 million in fiscal 2006.

University Foundation/Other expenditures consist of spending by the university foundation and other units outside of the procurement system. FSU had University Foundation/Other expenditures of $2.1 million. No data on the geographic distribution of this spending was available, thus it was distributed in the same manner as university procurement expenditures.

Student expenditures represent the living expenses of Fayetteville State University’s full-time graduate and undergraduate students. Part-time students are not included in this analysis since it is assumed that most of these students already live in the region and their spending, therefore, does not represent new spending in the region’s economy.<sup>2</sup> The university’s Office of Financial Aid provided information on the residency, estimated living expenses, and place of residence for undergraduate and graduate students. According to the data provided there are a total of 6,070 full time students in the area attending the university. Annual student living expenses were estimated at $6,440 per student. Multiplying the number of students (6,070) by the estimated living expenses of $6,040 yields an estimated $39.1 million in total student living expenses.

Visitor expenditures represent the spending by out-of-region visitors attracted into the Greater Fayetteville area by Fayetteville State University. It is difficult to estimate the number of out-of-state visitors and their spending. Numerous formal and informal events occur on campus. The university attracted visitors for sporting events, conferences, symposia, and academic events, as well as, admission visits and student visitors. In fiscal 2006, visitor expenditures were estimated at $3 million.

<sup>2</sup> Some part-time students do commute into the Fayetteville region from outside of the region, and the local spending of these students could be included in this analysis. Furthermore, many part-time students have been attracted into North Carolina by the programs available at Fayetteville State University. No data on this spending, however, was available. Thus, the overall impact of student expenditures is likely to be undercounted in this report.

1.1 The Economic Output Impact of Fayetteville State University

The expenditures associated with Fayetteville State University are circulated within the region's economy and become income for businesses and residents. This creates "spin-off" or "multiplier" effects as this money is spent and then re-spent in the regional economy. Thus, each dollar of new spending creates more than one dollar in economic impact, as that spending is earned and, in-turn, spent by others within the region.

Once the level of new expenditures in the economy is known, it can be entered into an economic model to determine the change in economic output (a measure similar to gross national product (GNP), which measures the level of economic activity in a region/state), employment, and earnings attributable to Fayetteville State University.<sup>3</sup> The estimated economic output impact of the university is presented in Table 2. Direct impacts are the changes in economic activity directly attributable to the university. Indirect impacts are the "spin-off" or "multiplier" effects caused by the introduction of a new spending stream into the local economy.

Total university, affiliated institution, associated student and visitor expenditures of $97.1 million are leveraged with an additional $98.3 million in indirect spending for a combined total impact of $195.4 million. University operation and foundation/other expenditures account for the half of the overall regional economic impact generated by the university. Student expenditures account for 36% of the university's impact, capital expenditures account for 11% and out-of-state visitor expenditures account for 3% of the impact.<sup>4</sup>

<sup>4</sup> No multipliers for students or visitors exist in the RIMS II model. In order to estimate the economic impact of this spending, blended multipliers were derived for each category of spending based on average spending by major expenditure category by students (from the U.S. Department of Labor's Consumer Expenditure Survey) and by visitors.

1.2 The Employment and Earnings Impacts of Fayetteville State University

As demonstrated in Table 3, Fayetteville State University directly employs a total of 919 workers in the region, while the $10 million in-region construction expenditures creates an estimated 92 construction related jobs. The total University operating, construction, student and visitor and affiliated institution spending supports an additional 1,505 jobs through indirect or spin-off employment, for a total of 2,516 jobs directly or indirectly supported by the university. As demonstrated in Table 4, there is a total of $81.1 million in salaries and wages associated with these 2,516 jobs, which is comprised of $36.7 million in direct salaries and wages and $44.4 million in salaries and wages for the jobs indirectly created or supported by the university.

1.3 The Fiscal Impact of Fayetteville State University

Fayetteville State University also impacts the fiscal health of the region. The salaries and wages earned by the university's employees and the jobs created and sustained through University spending are subject to taxes. Many of the purchases made by university employees, the persons directly or indirectly supported by the university as well as by students and visitors are also subject to sales tax. In order to estimate local fiscal impacts, total property tax, sales and services, and sales tax collections for the region were divided by the total personal income of the region to estimate an effective tax rate for the region. The effective tax rate was multiplied by the employee compensation impacts listed in Table 4 to derive the estimated fiscal impacts. To this was added the estimated taxes paid by students and visitors. The total regional property, sales and services, and sales tax receipts across all counties in the region resulting from university-related regional expenditures and their related economic impacts are an estimated $3.0 million. It was outside of the scope of this analysis to conduct a full fiscal impact analysis. This analysis looked at only sales, sales and services, and property taxes, which are the major sources of local revenue in North Carolina counties. According to the U.S. Bureau of the Census, these taxes account for 95% of total local government revenue from own sources. These figures do not include the added tax benefits to the state and the region derived from the increased earnings of university graduates or the corporate income taxes paid by companies. Thus, these figures only represent a portion of the total fiscal impact of Fayetteville State University.

Table 5
Fiscal Impact of Fayetteville State University
On the Greater Fayetteville Region, FY 2006
(Millions of Dollars)

Item	Direct Impacts	Indirect Impacts	Total Impacts
Total Greater Fayetteville Region Local Government Revenues	1.9	1.1	3.0

Source: FSU and The Jacob France Institute

The fiscal impact of Fayetteville State University can also be analyzed in terms of the level of economic output leveraged by the state appropriations. Universities, unlike other state government activities, attract a substantial portion of their revenues from other sources. The university attracts significant other sources of revenues, such as, tuition, research grants, and private gifts. This leveraging of state appropriations, combined with the economic impacts discussed above, leads to a high return on state expenditures. Dividing the total economic output impacts of the university by the state's appropriation provides an estimate of the economic return on the state's investment in Fayetteville State University. This is also a conservative estimate since the economic impact of the university was only calculated for the Greater Fayetteville Region. Using this figure, the university generates $3.97 in regional economic activity for every $1.00 in state appropriations.

Fayetteville State University

Fayetteville State University is in a constant state of expansion that has and will continue to enhance the well-being of students, faculty and staff. New buildings such as the Lyons Science Annex building include over 53,000 square feet of space. This new building will provide much needed additional classroom, laboratory and research space for students and faculty members alike. Additional auxiliary services will also be provided in this building.

The infrastructure of the university will continue to change and these changes will only enhance campus life for all those who are part of the FSU family.
