a. Attendance:

Regular class attendance is necessary for successful completion of English 110; therefore, students will follow the attendance policies as outlined in the student handbook. You have a responsibility to explain to your instructor, at the earliest possible time, any absence, lateness, or early departure from class.

b. Requirements:

The semester will involve you in a research sequence as follows:

COMPOSING ACTIVITIES	RESEARCH SKILLS	WRITING PRODUCED
1. Argument: Identifying Points Essay	Research in periodicals and journals from the Data Bases	Documented
2. Argument: Identifying Documented Essay points	Research in e-books and periodicals only
3. Argument: Developing Focus Research Paper	Research in books, interviews, periodicals, and web

The research sequence for this course begins with Paper One: a paper on a topic chosen in class using 2-3 sources from periodicals and journals found in the online Data Bases. Paper Two continues the research process by requiring students to uncover further points for the argument in paper One. At this point, students may choose to change topics. The paper requires a minimum of 4 online(Data Bases) or hard copy periodicals, journals or newspapers. Paper Three will be a longer and more fully researched development of Paper Two. The requirement for Paper Three is a minimum of 10 sources: at least 2 books (no dictionaries or encyclopedias), 2 interviews from credible sources, no more than 5 online periodicals or newspapers sources (Data Bases), one web article and as many hard copy newspapers and periodicals as needed. Paper One should not be more than 1,000 words, Paper Two not more than 2,000, Paper Three not more than 3,500. These word limits reinforce the need for focus. Students must use appropriate data bases and credible sources to receive credit for the writing.

Paper One is due Week Six

Paper Two is due Week Eleven

Paper Three is due Week Fourteen

Each writing, including drafts, must be written in Microsoft Word using a Times New Roman font set at size 12. You must submit the papers as hard copies. Each student will serve as the “editor” for another student’s papers and conduct peer reviews of other in-class writings. Readings from the class text will be the basis of in-class writings. Students will complete research-based exercises online in the department’s Writing Lab. Students will also use the appropriate software to generate American Psychological Association format for their research papers.

Addition Course Information

Journals are due by the end of the week specified. Grades for late journals will have 10 points deducted. Hard copies (final and rough drafts) of papers are due on the week specified; otherwise a late penalty of 10 points will be deducted. In-class collaborative writings cannot be made-up, but any quizzes may be taken late if you are absent and have an excuse. You will receive five points for using Criterion ten times for each paper and an additional five points if you score a 6/6 on your paper. You will receive five points for a score of 10% or less on turnitin, minus five points for 11%-20%, minus 10 points for 21%-30% and minus 20 points for any score above 30%.

d. Plagiarism and Cheating:

I expect students to do their own work for grades. I will not accept any paper/writing/test you give me for a grade that you completed through association with others (unless I assign you a partner), through plagiarism, or through means other than your own efforts. In case of a dispute, Dr. McShane will make the final decision.

VII. FSU Policy on Disruptive Behavior in the Classroom:

The Code of the University of North Carolina (of which FSU is a constituent institution) and the FSU Code of Student Conduct affirm that all students have the right to receive instruction without interference from other students who disrupt classes.

FSU Core Curriculum Learning Outcome under Ethics and Civic Engagement (6.03): All students will “prepare themselves for responsible citizenship by fulfilling roles and responsibilities associated with membership in various organizations.” Each classroom is a mini-community. Students learn and demonstrate responsible citizenship by abiding by the rules of classroom behavior and respecting the rights all members of the class.

The FSU Policy on Disruptive Behavior (see FSU website for complete policy) identifies the following behaviors as disruptive:

- 1. Failure to respect the rights of other students to express their viewpoints by behaviors such as repeatedly interrupting others while they speak, using profanity and/or disrespectful names or labels for others, ridiculing others for their viewpoints, and other similar behaviors;

2. Excessive talking to other students while the faculty member or other students are presenting information or expressing their viewpoints.
3. Use of cell phones and other electronic devices
4. Overt inattentiveness (sleeping, reading newspapers)
5. Eating in class (except as permitted by the faculty member)
6. Threats or statements that jeopardize the safety of the student and others
7. Failure to follow reasonable requests of faculty members
8. Entering class late or leaving class early on regular basis
9. Others as specified by the instructor.

The instructor may take the following actions in response to disruptive behavior. Students should recognize that refusing to comply with reasonable requests from the faculty member is another incidence of disruptive behavior.

1. Direct student to cease disruptive behavior.
2. Direct student to change seating locations.
3. Require student to have individual conference with faculty member. At his meeting the faculty member will explain the consequences of continued disruptive behavior.
4. Dismiss class for the remainder of the period. (Must be reported to department chair.)
5. Lower the student's final exam by a maximum of one-letter grade.
6. File a complaint with the Dean of Students for more severe disciplinary action.

Students who believe the faculty member has unfairly applied the policy to them may make an appeal with the faculty member's department chair.
