

I am Terronne Cuthrell a senior Accounting major here at Fayetteville State University and I found myself at FSU after a previous school I was interested in didn't give me enough financial aid. I called FSU about two weeks before school started and literally everyone in Financial Aid helped to ensure that I got enough aid as well as housing in time enough to move in before freshmen week started.

I actually have a number of instructors who have ensured that I will stay engaged in my schoolwork both on the leadership as well as the academic side. One instructor in particular in the accounting program has helped me understand the importance of discipline when it comes to my coursework as well as or more importantly online courses and so I owe a lot to her for that.

One of the biggest benefits of being a Bronco is a family-oriented environment. They definitely marry the idea of family and academics. And HBCU's as a whole. I feel like when you come to FSU, you're not going to feel like yet another number, yet another seat-filler. You are definitely a part of the Bronco family and that is the Bronco way.

I am proud to be a Bronco because I can see the growth in my university from freshman year to now. Both physically as well as you know things we can see behind the scenes. I can definitely see that we are definitely making strides to become a bigger, better, more thriving university and I'm happy to be a part of that. And be yet another contributor to what is Fayetteville State.
