

Bronco Regard

The Newsletter of Academic Affairs
Fayetteville State University

Issue Two, February 2019

Kudos

- ❖ Social Science Research Network (SSRN) lists Fayetteville State University's Broadwell College of Business and Economics at 66 among top U.S. Business Schools and 111 in the world.
- ❖ FSU's Marching Band earns #1 distinction for Division Two Schools from 'ESPN/Undefeated HBCU Band Rankings' despite hefty competition.

Help Wanted

- ❖ Does your department have access to qualitative analysis software (ATLAS TI or NVIVO) you would be willing to share? If so, please contact Dr. Miriam Chitiga (mchitiga@uncfsu.edu).

Whatever Happened To

Former FSU NCAA basketball stand-out Darryl Armstrong (91) serves as assistant coach on the NBA's Dallas Mavericks and ranks fifteenth on the list of all time top 25 players of the Orlando Magic.

Departments' Doings

- ❖ Associate Dean Erika Williams is working with charter schools to develop plans for teacher education practicums, respective to licensure and recruitment.

The Cyberworld

- ❖ National Institute of Digital Learning NIDL offers an array of On-line Teaching/Learning opportunities as well as a Dublin, Ireland conference in November 2019 that is accepting conference abstracts now.
- ❖ Professor Carole Weatherford's book Roots of Rap is discussed in the January 15, 2019 on-line issue of The Source.

Travel

- ❖ To interested students! Taking place this summer in France, Syracuse University's Abroad Paris Noir: Literature, Art, and Contemporary Life program focuses on connections with the global and Diaspora respective to African, Caribbean and Europe cultures. For more information, contact Janet A. Mayes at (800) 235-3472 or jamayes@syr.edu. Apply by 2/10/2019; financial assistance is available.

Announcements

- ❖ In recognition for excellence in teaching introductory courses to incoming freshmen, the Freshman Fellows are bringing technological innovation and best practices to many of FSU's Core Curriculum courses.
- ❖ Dr. Caroline E. Glacklin's paper, "Coloring Outside the Lines: Combining Customer Discovery and Multi-Criteria Decision Making Approaches in the Case of a Habitat for Humanity Restore" has been selected as the 2019 USABE Best Empirical Paper. There were over 300 submissions and 170 research submissions.

Celebrate Students

- ❖ Read about FSU student Mr. Keyshawn Farrar in The Fayetteville Observer. Mr. Farrar has formed FSU's Democratic Club, was instrumental in DeViere's Senate upset win over Meredith, and not surprisingly, has political aspirations of his own!
- ❖ Read this dynamo interview by FSU Student Ms. Lynzee Alarcon and Dr. Brenda Hammack on celebrated author Jennifer Given.

Community In/Out Reach

- ❖ "Gallery Goes POP: Warhol" can be seen (FREE) at Methodist University from 2/7-4/12. Catch the opening lecture, 2/7, by Nicole Dezelon. Reserve a docent for a free guided tour for your students or family at 425-5379/630-7000.

What's New

- ❖ The 1st Annual Undergraduate and Graduate Research Symposium, "A Celebration of Excellence in Scholarship & Creative Works" will be held 4/5 in the Rudolph Jones Student Center: Submit abstracts by 3/1.

Early Colleges

- ❖ International Early College Forensics Team "4N6" placed third overall in tournament play at Durham Academy.
- ❖ 2019-2010 Cross Creek Early College enrollment begins soon.

The Classroom Experience

- ❖ Dr. Chuck Tryon relies on FSU students to help him teach writing more effectively.
- ❖ Micro-Internships allow students with busy lives the opportunity to work at short-term projects as well as receive income.

To include news in next month's issue, please contact Micki Nyman, mnyman@uncfsu.edu.