

UNCG GRADUATE PROGRAMS IN HISTORY

The UNCG Department of History offers a Ph.D. and Masters of Arts in History. The Ph.D. program trains students for careers in academic research and university-level teaching. The Master's program has two tracks: a traditional M.A. degree that develops academic skills and knowledge, and a Museum Studies concentration that trains students in these skills and for a career in public history. Students in all of our programs work closely with professors on individual and group research projects, and receive personalized mentoring. Our classes are small, with 10-15 students, and all of the graduate students have the opportunity to take classes together and learn from each other.

Application Deadlines:
Ph.D. Jan. 15, 2021 M.A. Feb. 1, 2021

Contacts:
Dr. Jill Bender, jcbender@uncg.edu (Ph.D. and trad. M.A.)
Dr. Anne Parsons, pubhist@uncg.edu (Museum Studies)

- Ranked among the nation's top 100 graduate programs in History by U.S. News and World Report
- Has one of only three Ph.D. disciplinary programs in History in the state of North Carolina
- Has a Museum Studies Concentration with a national reputation and strong record of job placement
- Costs are among the most affordable in the nation and most students are provided with financial support
- Emphasis on hands-on experiences practicing history in the classroom and local community

his.uncg.edu/graduate/overview.html

UNC
GREENSBORO

Find your way here