A Whole New Look At Teaching - Understanding the Learning Process

Understanding the learning process is helpful to parents, students, and especially teachers. Throughout the course, Understanding The Learning Process, students will be taught how the brain functions and the different ways people learn.

Do you feel lost when helping your child with homework? Are you trying to plan for next year's curriculum and want to write lessons that reach all students?

This course will help you understand how people learn and plan for differentiated instruction. The different theories of learning will be taught to help educators construct a better learning experience inside and outside of the classroom.

Sign up today to begin a new brain based learning adventure.

Course No. FSU3426 | Price $69.00

STEM Summer Camp for Grades 8-12

JUNE 18-22, 2018 | 9AM-4PM DAILY

Sponsored by the FSU Department of Chemistry and Physics, teens are invited to attend a one-week camp to learn problem-solving in Science, Technology, Engineering, and Math (STEM). Campers will design their own experiments and learn to solve problems in the areas of physics, chemistry, math, and computer science.

Limited scholarships are available. Those wishing to be considered for scholarships should send a one-page essay explaining why you need the financial assistance and describing your academic and career goals and how an opportunity to attend the FSU STEM Summer Camp will help you achieve those. Send the essay to Camp Director Joe Kabbes at jkabbes@uncfsu.edu.

To register a camper or to learn more, please contact camp director Joe Kabbes at jkabbes@uncfsu.edu or visit www.uncfsu.edu/academics/colleges-schools-and-departments/continuing-education.
