All students who have earned bachelor's degrees and who are classified as undergraduate professional-development students are assessed tuition and fees at the undergraduate rate.

To be classified as an undergraduate professional-development student, a student must meet all of the following criteria:

1. have earned a bachelor's degree;
2. be enrolled in undergraduate coursework (100 – 400 level); and
3. not be pursuing (or seeking) a master's degree.
