STUDENT REPORT

Trustee Jermaine Coble provided an update on Student Government Association (SGA) activities. Trustee Coble shared a video highlighting some of the remarkable events held by the SGA this semester to include Growing Green, Career Fair, A Night with Bobby Seale, 2012 Student Elections, and the March on Murchison to name a few. The SGA motto is “The World is Yours” and Trustee Coble suggests that it can be done through better communications, voter empowerment, revamping Bronco Pride, you speak and we listen, and community service. Trustee Riggins commented that he was proud of Jermaine and the SGA regarding what they’ve done in regards to getting the students involved in voter registration. Dr. W. T. Brown reiterated those sentiments.

Trustee Coble states that one way in which he’d like to increase Bronco Pride is by investing in a banner that says Bronco Coral at the football games. The band has moved to the football section and having the banner would bring about a cohesiveness among the students. The SGA continues to do volunteer work that includes working at the Salvation Army Kitchen.

CHAIRMAN’S REMARKS

Chairman Lucy Vidal-Barreto recognized past chairman, Terence Murchison, for his exemplary service and leadership as chair for the past two years. She presented Chairman Murchison with a plaque and thanked him for his contributions to the Board. Chairman Murchison expressed his sentiments about working with a great Board during his tenure as Chair.

Chairman Vidal-Barreto shared some of the activities that she has been involved in since becoming chair. She and former chair, Terence Murchison, met with President Tom Ross in October to discuss Chancellor James Anderson’s Assessment. They also discussed new trustee appointments for 2013. Six Board members’ terms will expire in June 2013, and Chairman Vidal-Barreto will work with Chancellor Anderson in nominating prospective new members. Chairman Vidal-Barreto also advised that Mr. Thomas Harrelson was our Board of Governors’ (BoG) Campus Liaison.

In conversation with President Ross, Chairman Vidal-Barreto outlined several strategies and targets for FSU that includes strengthening the quality of our programs, our service to the people of North Carolina, maximizing efficiencies (shared services), and ensuring accessibility and financial stability.

HBCU Board Chairs recently convened to discuss collaborations essential to HBCU’s. The discussions focused on fundraising and the presentation by General Administration on new legislation and what it means as an HBCU.

Chair Vidal-Barreto attended a Capital Campaign meeting on December 7 and said that the group was energized. She also attended FSU’s Winter Commencement where Dr. Dudley Flood was the speaker.

Next steps? Chair Vidal-Barreto requested that at the March Board meeting there be a presentation on what Performance Based Funding means to FSU. She is also working with Institutional Advancement to see how the Board can better assist with the Capital Campaign in her quest to actively support the goals of the institution. Chair Vidal-Barreto’s foci encompass the following three strategic goals: funding (Capital Campaign), outcome, and Board engagement. She says that an effective Board should not be a comfortable place.

CHANCELLOR’S REPORT

Chancellor Anderson thanked Trustee Vidal-Barreto for her leadership. He also thanked Trustee Murchison for his leadership and tenure while Chairman of the Board.

Chancellor Anderson called attention to Dr. Young’s presentation during the Academic Affairs and Personnel Committee meeting earlier in the day in which Dr. Young spoke about the impact of the budget reductions and how it’s tied to enrollment. The Chancellor stated that as a large unit, Academic Affairs has to have constant monitoring and that the deans and chairs have to be visible as we work through the crisis. There are ongoing efforts to increase revenue; twelve (12) grants were funded in the last quarter.

This year’s salutatorian, Mario Sutton, worked as an intern at the Oakridge National Laboratory this past summer. Mr. Sutton was offered a job with Lockheed Martin.

With the silent phase of the Capital Campaign in full swing, Chancellor Anderson announced several major gifts from external donors that the university has received thus far. Businessman, Nicholas Perkins, presented the University with a gift of $100,000. Former Board of Trustee and Chair of the Board, Mr. John “Ben” Brown and his wife Dr. Dorothy Brown, a former faculty professor at FSU, presented the university with a gift of $25,000. One of the members of the Campaign Leadership Team and former Coca-Cola representative, Mrs. Adrian Johnson, will line up donors in Atlanta. She has ties to South Africa, as well as regional and national ties. The Chancellor stated that we need one-hundred percent participation from the Board.

The Chancellor’s faculty and staff Christmas reception was an opportunity to raise funds for a needy organization. Almost $1,000 was raised, which went to the Greater Oak Youth Center.

Briefly, Chancellor Anderson spoke about the restructuring of the CIAA offices—upgrading of marketing efforts, restructuring contracts that weren’t viable, and completing a cost benefit analysis. The CIAA has hired a new commissioner—Ms. Jacqueline Cunningham. The CIAA is the third largest conference in the U.S., however, the return on investments (ROI) haven’t been great.

Chancellor Anderson attended the annual SACS meeting in Dallas, Texas. He is on the Executive Council at SACS. FSU’s accreditation is fine for the next ten years.

Several Board members’ terms will expire this year and new nominations were submitted. Two members are up for reappointment, while four positions will have to be filled.
