

FAYETTEVILLE STATE UNIVERSITY GIVES ALL-CLEAR FOLLOWING HAZARDOUS MATERIAL INCIDENT

FAYETTEVILLE, N.C. – Fayetteville State University announces that the hazardous material incident that occurred earlier today in Lyon Science Annex has been fully resolved.

Resolution:

- All hazardous materials have been safely contained and removed
- Air quality testing confirms safe conditions
- Buildings have been cleared for normal operations
- Lyon Science Annex and Lyon Science buildings have reopened

Safety Measures:

- A comprehensive review of safety protocols is underway
- Additional safety measures are being evaluated
- Regular safety training and equipment inspections continue

The university appreciates the patience and cooperation of the campus community during this incident. Normal operations will resume immediately.

Alpha Clowney
Interim Chief of Police
Fayetteville State University Police and Public Safety
1200 Murchison Road
Fayetteville, NC 28301
910-672-2553
Campus Safety at Fayetteville State University \(uncfsu.edu\)
